

Relaxation, fun and play in the TRAUMSCHWINGER

Stranger in the world of adults babies miss the familiar movements of the pregnant tummy especially in the first months. Lying in a cradle, hanging from its single-point suspension, babies experience familiar feelings. The gentle rhythm of the circular and spiral movements create a feeling of calmness and make for a natural way of decreasing stress. Restlessness, crying attacks, crankiness or sleeping problems (parents' also) decrease. At the same time the development of the motor abilities, the sense of balance and the sense of perception is encouraged.

Of course not only babies are benefitting of these effects, also older children are profiting by the quality of the chairs and their advantages. A hanging chair is the ideal place to ease one's mind. Children experience the feeling of floating, comfort and safety – pure relaxation. They also experience a whole new world through play: scoring a goal, being aboard a ship on the high seas, in a robber's den or at a circus with climbing acrobats – there are no limits when it comes to creating exercises and fantasy scenarios.

But there is more in the babycradle and the hanging chairs of Mira Art, the German producer of the Traumschwinger. The products are woven from a specially developed cotton thread which has a velvety soft feel and imparts a feeling of physical well-being. The high-quality, pollutant-free thread is the result of handcrafting with traditional twisting techniques. The distinctive elasticity of the thread and the knot-free tying of the net ensure a flexibility that allows the material to adapt to the body, naturally and without pressure. Ergonomic seating and lying are supported in every position and the spine is maintained in an elongated position, which means relief for the body and joints. No matter which model – from babycradle to XXL - various angles of inclination can be set quickly and easily by using the wooden side pieces. And with the height adjuster the height can be easily adapted to the size and the weight of a person. The Traumschwinger is available in six different sizes – from the Babycradle up to the XXL-model, in which an adult and at least one child is feeling comfortable. Thanks to the machine washable nets the hanging chair is also very suitable for allergic person.
